Dear Mr. Dulles:

I want you to know that I have submitted, to a member of the President's Committee, an outline of a plan to set up, here, a "maximum security" unit, which will be placed on the agenda for consideration at their next meeting on 22 September.

I have stated that we would make our best operations officers available, without cost, for clearance to conduct a study and submit recommendations regarding techniques and equipment, but with no obligation to proceed beyond that, except upon some mutually satisfactory basis, to be agreed upon.

If the Committee does not disapprove, the way might be cleared for discussions.

I am writing you in longhand because it seemed best to avoid dictation at this point.

Very sincerely yours,

STATINTL
